

From: Glenn Gardiner
To: Microsoft ATR
Date: 11/27/01 1:24am
Subject: Microsoft Sellout

To Whom It May Concern:

The so called settlement is an embarrassment. Nobody has been able to control Microsoft during it's entire existence. What makes you think I believe a couple of "overseers" sitting in an office will have any effect upon Microsofts behavior and actions. The now spin less Justice Department did nothing to delay restrict or stop the release of Mocrosoft Office XP. This settlement is basically what was decreed in an earlier acton brought against Microsoft and Microsoft ignored it.

This is a completely useless settlement. How stupid are the people running the Justice Department under President Bush? I have read that the governments position that breaking up Microsoft would do greivous harm to the economy. Why doesn't the government care what Microsoft has has done to dozens, possible hundreds of other companies. Apparenty, it is not enough to be declared a monopoly. Apparently, the lesson to be learned is that you must make yourself so big that it no longer matters how many companies you destroy on your way to the top. Nice lesson for all those "Young Republicans"

Respectfully.

Glenn Gardiner

 "I'll rebuild your desktop and empty your trash, but I don't do Windows..."
 -Greg Smith, Mac Fan-